Volcanoes National Park

The spectacular Virunga Mountains are the setting for Volcanoes National Park. This is Africa's sixth highest mountain range – the tallest volcano, Karisimbi, rises to 4,507m – and one of its most biodiverse. The park's most celebrated inhabitant is the mountain gorilla, which weighs up to 200kg and shares over 95% of its genes with humans. Other wildlife includes the endangered golden monkey, the elusive elephant and buffalo whose spoor are often seen on forest trails, and 180 bird species. You cannot enter this ecologically fragile park by car and no accommodation lies within its boundaries; exploration is limited to guided walking excursions such as gorilla tracking and volcano hikes.

Accommodation | Day 2

Mountain Gorilla View Lodge

Lodge | Just outside Volcanoes National Park

The first thing you'll notice about Mountain Gorilla View Lodge is its dramatic setting below six of the lofty volcanoes that make up the Virunga Mountains. Situated just 10 minutes' drive from the park headquarters at Kinigi, this ecolodge is a popular and convenient place for gorilla tracking and other activities in Volcanoes National Park. An imposing thatched restaurant serves delicious meals made with fresh ingredients sourced from the local community. Accommodation is in large cottages with their own lounge and terrace, a modern bathroom, and a fireplace to take the edge off those chilly highland evenings.
